Last Chance to Save on Equity Membership in the Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club
Webinar with Geoffrey Kent June 24

DOWNERS GROVE, IL – June 17, 2010... With the current Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club membership promotion set to expire at the end of the month, Chairman Geoffrey Kent will conduct a webinar on Thursday, June 24, at 12:00 p.m. EDT to discuss the benefits of Club membership and share a few of his favorite travel experiences as a Club member. Darin Gilson, Senior Vice President of Sales and Business Development, will review the key differences between equity and non-equity clubs.

Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club members have access to a portfolio of magnificent private homes – typically 4,000 square feet with four bedrooms and at least four baths – in beach, mountain and golf destinations. They can also exchange nights for credit toward Abercrombie & Kent travel, such as an adventure cruise in the Galapagos Islands, an African safari, a journey to Egypt, or 22 European villas across Tuscany, Provence and Cote d’Azur.

“This is the perfect time to join the Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club and plan a family vacation during July and August, while there is still availability,” according to Club President Scott Wiseman. “An important benefit that prospective members often overlook is the value of having a dedicated Global Experience Manager handle all the arrangements. They make planning a family vacation effortless and can organize memorable experiences like a beach barbecue on a private island or a hike to see lava flowing as it enters the ocean.”

There are many factors to consider when joining a destination club, but none is more important than the “equity” vs. “non-equity” model. What sets the conservative Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club equity model apart from other destination clubs is that members own the Club and the Club owns the properties, debt-free. Capital contributions are secured by the Club’s assets, providing a measure of security and peace of mind from knowing your membership is backed by hard assets. Financial transparency, regular reporting and membership participation in Club governance have earned the Abercrombie & Kent Residence Club a reputation as best in class in the destination club industry.
